

We also want to thank those who contributed directly to this book—from teachers who allowed our videographers into their classrooms, to school and district leaders and EL Education staff who reviewed drafts of each chapter, to the schools who partnered with us to pilot the curriculum, to videographers and designers. The book is better because of the experience and expertise you shared with us and, of course, your kind, specific, and helpful feedback.

Finally, a few special thank-yous. First, to Mike Kelly, who designed this book and worked tirelessly with us to get everything just right. Second, to Casey Schultz, who not only led the design of the K–2 Reading Foundations Skills Block, but also wrote Chapter 4 of this book. Third, to two of EL Education's leaders, Scott Hartl, our president and CEO, and Kemi Akinsanya-Rose, our chief operating officer, for championing both the curriculum and this book and doing everything in their power to fund and prioritize both projects.

And last, but certainly not least, the EL Education field staff—school coaches and professional development specialists—who are in schools every day helping teachers hone their practice so that they can give their students the learning experiences they need and deserve.
